

Science Password Game

1. Stack all word cards face down in the middle of the team.
2. The person wearing the most blue becomes the first Scientist. He or she picks up the top card and looks at it without showing it to the others. (If the Scientist does not know what the word is, he or she puts it at the bottom of the deck and chooses another.)
3. The Scientist begins giving hints about the meaning of the word or phrase, but he or she cannot use any part of the phrase in the clue. (Example, if the term is “rain forest,” neither the word “rain,” nor the word “forest” can be used.)
4. The other team members begin calling out their guesses about the word. The Scientist keeps giving more hints until someone guesses it.
5. The first person to guess the word receives the word card. (Do Rock-Paper-Scissors to break a tie.)
6. Play passes to the left. The next person becomes the new Scientist. Follow steps 2 through 5 until time is up or the words run out.
7. Who ended up with the most words? He or she is the Password Champion!
